CHAMPAGNE

No wine is more evocative than Champagne, the king of sparkling wines.

Yet Champagne is so readily associated with celebration and name brands that we tend to forget that beyond being wine it's a region in northeast France.

Champagne is a unique wine in so many ways. The grapes used to make Champagne wines possess characteristics not found anywhere else in the world due to the particular geography, soil and climate of the Champagne delimited region. There are five major areas : Reims, Epernay, Montagne de Reims, Vallée de la Marne and the Côtes des Blancs.

The three main grape varieties used in the making of Champagne are the white-skinned chardonnay grape and the red-skinned pinot noir and pinot meunier grapes. Every aspect of this French-originating wine is distinguished by careful choices in the growing and harvesting of its grapes, the intricate methods of its production and the specific practices used in its consumption. This unique nature also carries over to some of the terminology associated with Champagne. Some of these terms are specific to Champagne, while others can also be used when discussing other wines.

Terminology of Champagne Classification

- Blanc de blanc : Champagne made solely from white Chardonnay grapes
- Blanc de noir : Champagne made only with black Pinot Noir or Pinot Meunier grapes
- Rosé : the only rosé wines in the EU that can be made by blending red wine and white wine
- NV/Non-vintage : a blend of different wines from multiple harvests
- Vintage : All the wine is from the vintage (year) listed on the bottle
- Brut Nature/Brut Zero : No added sugar
- Extra Brut : Very dry
- Brut : Very dry to dry
- Sec : Medium dry

11 FINE CHAMPAGNE

Each of the great Champagne houses of France makes a Prestige Cuvée or Tête de Cuvée, they are the emblems of elegance, joie de vivre and quality. For the prestige cuvée Champagnes, houses apply even more rigorous standards in pursuit of even greater excellence. Only the superior juice from the first pressing is used in prestige Champagnes. The longer period of aging further distinguish them from other sparkling wines. There is a remarkable diversity of individuality among prestige cuvée Champagnes. Additionally, because most are vintage wines, they take on characteristics of an individual vintage and differ from previous bottlings.

Salon 1997 75 cl 357,14 □

"Salon 1997 : a sensuality of Silk. The nose is complex yet ethereal. Wonderfully refined, it is intriguing and enticing. Its minerality complemented by hints of white flowers, acacia and hawthorn. A salty note enhances aromas of bread crust, brioche and the merest hint of green apple and hazelnut. The palate is quintessentially pure, the very epitome of balance and restraint. Exuberant on attack the mousse becomes more of a caress whilst bubbles dance playfully on the palate ; its delicate allure emulating the sensuous grace of a silk veil at dawn. Mastery character, elegance and bright vitality - Complex indeed"

Salon 1999 75 cl 357,14 □

"Salon 1999 : Natural sophistication. A very pale yellow with barely green hints and a lively nose but still discreet, 1999 Salon, with its clear immediate taste, has that juvenile grace that captures the palate, itself straight, firm and textured. A gift of natural sophistication that persists just like the creamy bubbles. Brioche, dough, white blossom, white fruit and bitter almond flavours are still developing. The middle palate and finish are crystalline with hints of citrus and much length."

Fine Champagne List

Salon 2002/04 75 cl 357,14 □

"Salon 2002 : The soul of Salon. Salon 2002 has a lifetime ahead, years for its exceptional characteristics to develop, refine and magnify. While approachable now, it retains a sense of adolescent spirit, a latent charge of energy, and a lithe, youthful grace that will never fade.

It is pale gold in hue with hints of green. The nose is complex - orange flowers with the merest hint of honey-dew, candied citrus notes, madeleine buns warm from the oven. The palate is inordinately fine, long and straight as an arrow, bridling with energy yet restrained and precisely poised. Like the blade of a samurai sword as it slices clean through a stem, the flower soaring high, then falling softly through the air. Salon 2002 is a great romantic, but also armed for battle! Its strength and audacity give it the balance of a classical dancer."

12Bollinger Vieilles Vignes Françaises 2004 75 cl 631,50 □

"The eternal soul of Champagne". Get a taste of Champagne in bygone days : a very small production from miraculously preserved and un-grafted vines, grown the traditional way.

Laurent-Perrier Grand Siècle 75 cl 112,73 □

Grand Siècle expresses the quintessence of champagne and French refinement. Launched in 1959, Grand Siècle is Laurent-Perrier's Prestige Cuvée, the prime example of the House's exacting standards and know-how. Its unique style com-blending finesse, power and balance is the outcome of blending the very best grapes from the most prestigious crus in wines from the best Laurent-Perrier vintage years.

Cuvée Carbon 2007 75 cl 192,65 ☐

With a wine created from only the best grapes in the Grand and Premier cru rated vineyards, and superb vines located on the famous slopes of the Champagne region, the House of Devavry has both the know how and the experience. The Family, all devoted to the Vine, have come together to create this exceptional Cuvée Clos des Goisses 2005 from Philliponnat 75 cl 118,52 ☐

The first clos and first terroir to be vinified and blended separately, Clos des Goisses is unique and instantly recognisable for its extremely steep slope. Its walled 5.5 hectare vineyard is not only the oldest in Champagne, but also the steepest, at 45°. This explains the origin of its name: in the local dialect, "Gois" means a very steep slope. This exceptional terroir with chalky soil is ideally situated facing due South, on Mareuil-sur-Ay's best hillside.

Henriot Cuve 38 Perpétuelle 75 cl 414,28 ☐

This wine is the result of an exceptional project. A vision of an original link between past and future generations of the house and all the enthusiasts who see this transmission as an opportunity to create new, unique, intense emotions. Started secretly in Henriot's cellars in 1990, the first release of this champagne is now ready, bottled in individually numbered magnums.

Comtes de Champagne Taitinger 2006 75 cl 104,08 ☐

The wine's surprising color is deep and strong glinting with amber and copper. The amazing paradox is that this rosé wine is never really pink. The first floral notes immediately give way to black cherry and candied citrus peel, complemented by cocoa and few smoky accents.

Pol Roger Winston Churchill 2004 75 cl 194,50 ☐

Champagne Pol Roger created their Prestige Cuvée in homage to Sir Winston Churchill mindful of the qualities that he sought in his champagne : robustness, a full-bodied character and relative maturity. The exact blend is a closely guarded family secret but it is undeniable that the composition would meet with the approval of the man to whom it is dedicated : "My tastes are simple, I am easily satisfied with the best".

13 BURGUNDY

Burgundy, or Bourgogne, has over 100 different appellations, numerous individual vineyards and more than 3 000 individual producers ! Which might seem slightly intimidating !

This region can be divided into five key growing regions or districts to know:

Chablis, Côte Chalonnaise, Mâconnais, Côte de Nuits and Côte de Beaune.

These last two districts, Côte de Nuits and Côte de Beaune, are collectively referred to as the famous Côte d'Or, meaning "golden slope" and represents the most well known wine district of Burgundy.

In the Bourgogne region, the wines are mainly single varietal. This "purity of expression" means that each plot gives each vintage its own personality and unique characteristics. Chardonnay is very sensitive to the subtle variations in terroir.

Cultivated by locals for centuries, the Chardonnay grape is responsible for the reputation of the great white wines of Burgundy. Elegant, subtle, complex, earth-driven, and filled with finesse, Burgundy's white wines maintain their status of model for classic chardonnay over the world.

The Hierarchy of Burgundy Appellations

• Grand Cru meaning "great growth". A grand cru name will be applied to a single vineyard.

It is the actual piece of ground which bears the name.

For example : Montrachet Grand cru...

• Premier Cru meaning "first growth" : Beaune Premier Cru...

• Village Appellations, or communal : Chablis or Gevrey-Chambertin...

• Regional Appellations : Bourgogne Blanc, Bourgogne Aligoté...

LOIRE VALLEY

The Loire Valley is divided into 5 distinct wine regions characterised by different geology and soils. Each with distinctive grapes, appellations and style :

The Centre-Loire, is the original home of Sauvignon Blanc and of Sancerre the world's most prestigious Sauvignon Blanc wine that sets international standards for the grape. The region also produces excellent reds from Pinot Noir in Sancerre, Menetou-Salon, and Chateaufumeillant.

The Pays Nantais region is known for Muscadet, (made from the Melon de Bourgogne grape) the largest white wine appellation in France.

Wine of the Touraine region include many famous appellations, Vouvray made from Chenin Blanc. Chinon, Bourgueil and St Nicolas de Bourgueil, all made from Cabernet Franc.

In Saumur, the excavations left from building castles and palaces left hundreds of miles of underground tunnels that now serve as cellars for « Fines Bulles », the Chenin Blanc based sparkling wines of the Loire. Saumur also produces Saumur-Champigny, one of the Loire Valley's great Cabernet Franc red wines.

Anjou produces many of the Loire Valley's best sweet wines Bonnezeaux, Coteaux du Layon and Quarts de Chaume, all made from Chenin Blanc. Anjou is also home to Savennières, a fascinating dry Chenin Blanc.

PROVENCE

The Côtes de Provence appellation extends over more than 20,000 hectares in 3 French departments : the Var, Bouches du Rhône and an enclave in the Alpes Maritimes, grouping together 84 communes. The "terroir" (site-specific soils and climatic conditions) of the Côtes de Provence appellation is formed by complex geological features.

Two major geological formations coexist in the Côtes de Provence – limestone in the Northwest and crystalline in the Southeast. The entire northwest portion of the Côtes de Provence vineyards is comprised of alternating hills and rocky hogbacks that have been sculpted by erosion.

White wine grapes

- Rolle (Vermentino) : Originally from Liguria but grown in Provence since antiquity. It is an extremely hardy grape with a great taste, which produces wines with citrus and pear aromas, full-bodied and well-balanced, both smooth and flavorful.

- Ugni blanc : Originally from Tuscany, these are round, juicy grapes that produce clear, fruity wines known for their elegance.

- Clairette : A very ancient vine from Provence, which only yields small amounts of fruit. This oblong grape produces aromatic wines with an excellent bouquet and hints of white fruits.

- Sémillon : A rambunctious, high-yield vine that can easily fall prey to rotting. Used only in small amounts, it produces full-bodied and full-flavored wines with a pronounced bouquet, offering elegant nuances of white flowers and honey.

- Bourboulenc blanc (Doillon) : This late-maturing grape is extremely hardy and rustic.

Still quite rare in Provence, it gives wines a touch of elegance and a fuller taste. CÔTES DE PROVENCE

WHITE BORDEAUX

Bordeaux offers fresh and aromatic white wines made from Sauvignon and Sémillon. These wines represent over 10% of the vineyard's production. Although most of these wines are consumed young, such as those from the Entre-Deux-Mers appellation, others, notably those from Pessac-Léognan, are sought after for their complexity, strength and ageing potential.

For the Sweet Wines of Bordeaux, the terroir stretches along both sides of the Garonne, south of the city of Bordeaux.

This family of appellations produces sweet wines from Sémillon and Sauvignon grapes that are intentionally allowed to overripen.

The resulting concentration of sugar produces golden wines that are extremely elegant and smooth, with a remarkable bouquet. SAUTERNES / LOUPIAC / BARSAC

ALSACE

The wines of AOC Alsace, in which the grape variety typically appears on the label, are comprised of 100% of that varietal. Where not indicated, the wine is typically a blend of several grape varieties, sometimes called "Edelzwicker" or "Gentil", or bearing a brand name. Corresponding geographical information (vineyard site, commune, etc.) may also be included on the label. AOC Alsace represents 74% of the region's wine production, of which 92% are white wines. Alsace Wines 2010 - Small Yields, Terrific Freshness, Freshness, fruit and limited yields are the hallmarks of the 2010 vintage in Alsace. In Alsace, each vintage brings its own challenges and opportunities. Variations in weather – and the impact of these climatic phenomena on the way our vines are managed – give each vintage a unique character.

RHÔNE VALLEY

Although the Rhône is considered as one vineyard region, it falls naturally into two parts, with different climates and grape varieties : the Northern Rhone and the Southern Rhone.

The Northern Rhône is associated with luscious white wines made of Viognier. It is an exuberant grape variety with exotic apricot, spice and floral aromas with a rich mouthfeel. Marsanne and Roussanne are also used to make white wines that age well and develop complex honeyed aromas. The cultivation of white grapes remain a minority concern in the South but their white wines are worth trying ! They speak of the warm southern climate, honeysuckle, stone fruits and melon, backed with refreshing minerality.

PROVENCE

Provence is the world's leading region for rose wines.

Provence is blessed with a fantastic climate, especially for grapes! The Mediterranean moderates the temperatures and the famous "Mistral" wind keeps the vineyards dry, free of pests and the skies clear.

The geography is diverse with numerous mountain ranges that texture the landscape providing gentle slopes and sheltered valleys.

The grape varieties used are Cinsault, Syrah, Grenache and Mouvèdre.

Provençal rosés tend to be very pale pink, sometimes salmon-coloured. The tasting notes that you hear most often for these wines are strawberry, raspberry, and citrus. The acidity refreshes your mouth on those hot summer days !!!

These wines are versatile. Rosé is a wine that can go with a great range of food, especially Asian food but also barbecues, summer salads...

It is also perfect for the aperitif !CÔTES DE PROVENCE

BORDEAUX

Bordeaux is the largest wine producing region in France, both in terms of volume and value. It is home of many of the most prestigious names in fine wine.

Given the size of the area, the Bordeaux region is usually split in two : The "left bank", and the "right bank" to the east of the river. The typical styles of Bordeaux red wine from the left- and right bank are not alike due to the different blends of grape varieties used and the different soil encountered on the two river banks.

Bordeaux red wine is always a blend of two to five grape varieties : Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Petit Verdot, and the now less common Malbec. The blend changes every year, as each producer will define the optimal mix depending on the quality of the harvest. The harvest quality is heavily influenced by the season's weather which will favour the development and quality of one or the other grape variety.

Bordeaux wine classification

A second, often mentioned differentiation of Bordeaux wines is the Grand Cru classification established in 1855, which ranked the best producers from the left bank communes into 1st , 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th growth wines ("Grand Cru Classe"). On the right bank a similar classification was created in 1955 only for the St. Emilion region.

Fine red wines from

Bordeaux require time to age in order to reach their peak and provide the most drinking pleasure.

This aging is needed for the more complex wine aromas to evolve and surface.

This development process can take about 10 years for good Bordeaux in good vintages, but it can take much longer for very good

vintages. BORDEAUX GROWTHS / GRANDS CRUS CLASSÉS

BURGUNDY

51

Burgundy, or Bourgogne, has over 100 different appellations, numerous individual vineyards and more than 3 000 individual producers ! Which might seem slightly intimidating !

This region can be divided into five key growing regions or districts to know:

Chablis, Côte Chalonnaise, Mâconnais, Côte de Nuits and Côte de Beaune.

These last two districts, Côte de Nuits and Côte de Beaune, are collectively referred to as the famous Côte d'Or, meaning "golden slope" and represents the most well known wine district of Burgundy.

In the Bourgogne region, the wines are mainly single varietal. This "purity of expression" means that each plot gives each vintage its own personality and unique characteristics. Chardonnay is very sensitive to the subtle variations in terroir.

Cultivated by locals for centuries, the Chardonnay grape is responsible for the reputation of the great white wines of Burgundy. Elegant, subtle, complex, earth-driven, and filled with finesse, Burgundy's white wines maintain their status of model for classic chardonnay over the world.

The Hierarchy of Burgundy Appellations

- Grand Cru meaning "great growth". A grand cru name will be applied to a single vineyard. It is the actual piece of ground which bears the name. For example : Montrachet Grand cru...
- Premier Cru meaning "first growth" : Beaune Premier Cru...
- Village Appellations, or communal : Chablis or Gevrey-Chambertin...
- Regional Appellations : Bourgogne Blanc, Bourgogne Aligoté...

LANGUEDOC ROUSSILLON

Domaine du Tremblay 75 cl 2014 12,46 □

Languedoc-Roussillon is such a large region that it is impossible to generalise about the entirety. It helps to divide it into three main sections.

In the East, near the Rhône Valley, the red wines are generous, Syrah is the outstanding grape variety and it blends well with grenache and textured and fruit driven.

mourvèdre.

The West is drier, more mountainous and colder which can be tasted in the wines.

The carignan grape is an essential element in many of the reds.

The South is hot and dry, surrounded by mountains. It is famous for its fortified wines like the Banyuls, grenache based with a little carignan.

PROVENCE

There are four geographical "Sub Regions" in the Côtes de Provence and they're easy to identify as they are allowed to add their names to the label !

Just get to know a bit about the various areas and sub-regions and you'll appreciate the wide variety of wines and styles that reflect their unique terroirs.

More and more top-shelf red wines are being produced in Provence.

The reds are ripe and lush enough to be enjoyed in youth but the best also have the capacity for long ageing.

Bandol is known principally for its characterful, warmly spicy oaked reds made predominantly from Mourvèdre.

The Côtes de Provence are a blend of Syrah, grenache, carignan and cabernet sauvignon, often oak aged. They are usually boldly flavoured, medium-bodied wines, with moderate to pronounced tannic structure. They pair well with the meat and game dishes of the region, especially lamb and venison.

RHÔNE VALLEY

The Rhone Valley is a huge, diverse, viticultural area.
 The range of wines produced is as large as the appellation.
 The great majority of wine made in the Northern Rhone is made from the Syrah grape, and the region's most famous wines are the deep-flavoured, long-lived reds Hermitage and the theoretically more fragrant and delicate Côte Rôtie.

Grenache is the King in the South and forms the foundation of the area's popular blends. The wines made in this seductive countryside are aromatic, structured and elegant with black fruit, licorice and spicy notes...

LOIRE VALLEY

Chapelle Paul Jaboulé Aîné 75 cl 2013 128,57 □

The red wines of the Loire Valley range from fresh and fruity to rich and earthy, but they are never overpowering. The lighter ones can be served chilled at a summer barbecue, and the fuller bodied are excellent for companions for hearty dishes.

The cabernet franc grape is the predominant variety in Bourgueil and other nearby Loire Valley red-wine appellations, like Chinon, Saumur and Saumur-Champigny. When properly ripe, cabernet franc offers a mouthwatering balance of plump blackberry fruit and slightly austere tobacco flavors.
